Master's in Social Justice & Community Organizing (M.A.)

LEARN THE SKILLS TO MOBILIZE CHANGE

This program combines a unique focus on theories and practices to equip you with the skills, connections, and knowledge you need to participate or lead effectively in grassroots mobilization and social justice movement building. Courses offer an intensive emphasis on comparative critical theory (both scholarly and grassroots movement-based) with direct participation in organizing and mobilization as powerful tools for understanding the complex relations of culture, power, systems of oppression, and the history and future of movements for social and environmental justice. Community organizing skills, together with a strong theoretical basis, will prepare you to take action and help change the world.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

- Globalization and Urban Politics
- Radical Pedagogy as Praxis
- Theories of Change
- Comparative Political and Social Theory
- Leadership Development
- Mobilizing Change
- Advocacy Research
- Landscapes of Neoliberalism
- Community Organizing I - IV
